

I was thrilled when NJ passed the do not call law. It has eliminated many of the early am, meal-time, and post-bed-time calls (as well as other calls) we received from telemarketers that interrupted tasks in progress, woke us up, and frustrated us to no end. Especially when the telemarketer was not willing to accept "No, I'm not interested." as an answer and would try to keep us hanging on the phone and aggressively try to sell us their product. I like the reduction in the calls that have 'pestered' me for so many years. It is an invasion of my privacy to be called in this manner for services I do not want, need, and in which I have no interest. If I am interested in buying a product, I will pick up my phone and call a vendor. Please do not change or revoke this law. If anything, I would like it strengthened to eliminate all these calls.
